This is non-final Office Action for the serial number 10/814,478, RETAINING CLIP WITH OFFSET LATCHING FINGERS, filed on 3/31/04.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

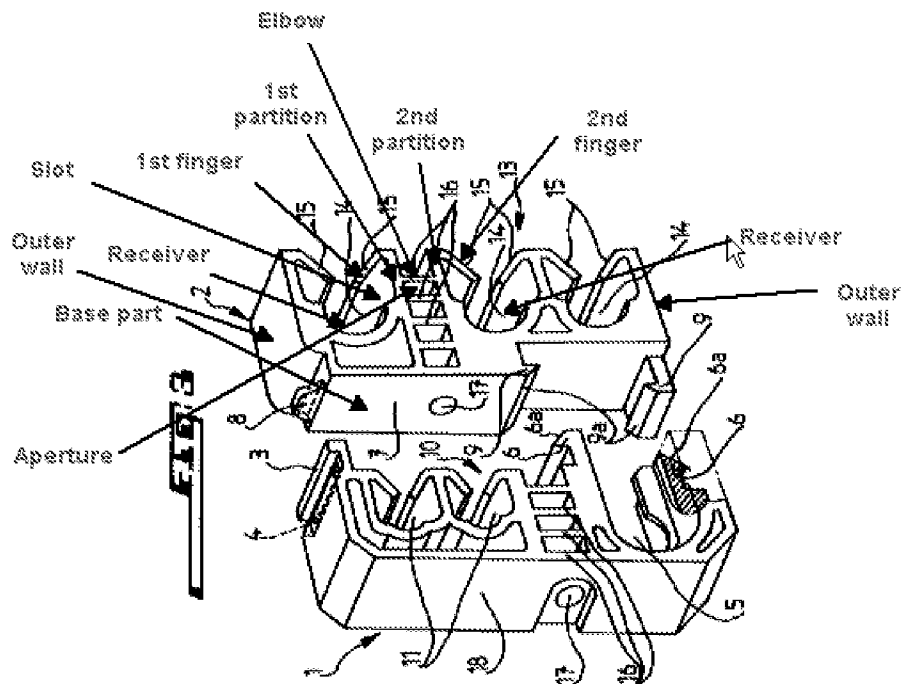

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4 and 7-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by European Publication # 569,297 to Leon.

Leon teaches a clip comprising a base part (7) with first and second generally parallel partitions between two receivers (14). The receivers comprise a front side and a rear side. The clip includes at least one first latching finger (15) coupled to the first partition at the front side and at least one second latching finger (the other 15) coupled to the second partition at the rear side of the receiver. The width of the first and second latching fingers are smaller than the width of the first and second partitions. The first is arranged offset relative to the second latching finger. The first and second partitions are connected by an elbow (16). The elbow having a length about the length of the first and second partitions and defines an aperture therein. The first and second partitions having an opening in the form of a slot. The clip includes outer walls having at least one latching finger. The outer walls are reinforced by reinforcing structures (3).

Art Unit: 3632

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2, 6 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Leon.

Art Unit: 3632

Leon teaches the first latching finger is arranged laterally offset relative to the second latching finger but fails to teach the distance between the first latching finger and second latching finger is between 5 to 20 % of the width of the partitions / fingers' ratio of the width of partitions between 1:4 and 1:2. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the distance between the first latching finger and second latching finger to 5-20% of the width of the partitions/ fingers' ratio of the width of partitions between 2:5, 1:4 and 1:2 to provide designer's preference for the distance between the first and second latching fingers.

In regards to claim 9, Leon teaches the clip but fails to teach the clip is made of plastic. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified clip to plastic to reduce cost in manufacturing process.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 12, 14, 16 and 17 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2, 4-12, 14 and 16-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
